CARLO ARRECHEA

BIO

Sizzling hot Havana, Cuba-born bilingual actor Carlo Arrechea is a star on the rise in Hollywood, recently making his U.S. prime time debut in the CBS hit TV series S.W.A.T. where he portrayed 'Gio Torres', a middleweight Cuban boxer, aka "The Caribbean King." In the series, Torres is a prize fighter set to win a huge upcoming match when his pregnant wife is kidnapped and held for ransom. He enlists the S.W.A.T. team and works with them to retrieve his wife right in time for the delivery of their first child. The heartfelt role has garnered him much media attention and was one that was especially significant to him as it tied back to his Cuban roots.

A third-generation actor, Arrechea's career began at the age of 6 when he played the son to his biological mother in a telenovela in his home country of Cuba. He fell in love with the craft and was selected as one of the stars of the children's show "Los Chicos Altura" ("The High Kids"). His family then moved to Miami and he faced a culture shock that made him rethink acting. He decided to study psychology in college but dropped out after only one semester to return to his true passion. It was during this time that he got into theater and started receiving a lot of attention for his stage performances including "El Solar de la Palangana de Oro" by Raúl de Cárdenas, a work that opened many doors for him and earned him press coverage as the "new face of acting" by People en Español.

From theater, he jumped into television where he began with small roles in well-known Telemundo and Univision telenovelas such as "Más saber el diablo", "El Cartel 2" and "Alguien te Mira". He also starred in two short films, "Fate's Decree" directed by Michael Ruiz and the super production "El Manantial", with renowned Sam Bradley as director. His career thus began to roll, and his name to be known on the Miami scene. Not long after he was cast in the successful Nickelodeon Latin America series "Grachi" which he starred in for three seasons (152 episodes). It was during this time that he also starred in his first leading film role in the romantic comedy LA REBÚSQUEDA, the highest-grossing Salvadoran film in the country's history.

After his success in Latin America, Arrechea decided to move to Los Angeles to begin his crossover into the U.S. market. Throughout his acting career, he has starred in several television commercials, including the Johnnie Walker national commercial which toasts to immigrants and highlights their grueling path towards citizenship. He is a member of SAG-AFTRA and is an alumnus of the Stella Adler Academy of Acting. As a Cuban-born actor, Arrechea has always looked up to the original Latin Comedy star Desi Arnaz and a dream role for him would be to reprise the role of 'Ricky Ricardo' in a comedy series or film.

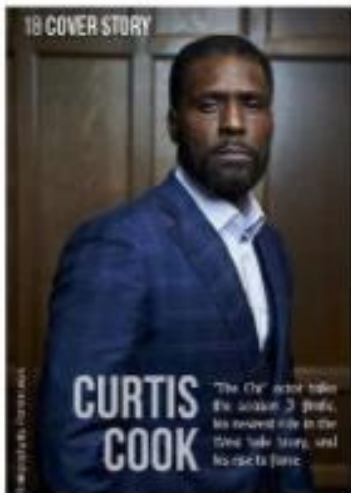

In his free time Arrechea enjoys reading, meditating, and exercising, and sees every day the opportunity to grow and improve in all aspects. He also enjoys volunteering for The Ronald McDonald House, where he feeds, plays games, and speaks with children and parents who have seriously ill children or family members in hospital.

by La'Tisha M. and La'Tasha T. (Twins of Media)

Q: What has the quarantine been like for you and your family?

I'm by myself in L.A. It's been crazy to the beginning. It was more like adapting to everything you know everything stopped. After the second week, I was kind of like working with what I got. I have been reading a lot and working on myself and my mental health. So that's been my priority, working out, honing my skills as an actor, reading, spending quality time with myself, which is a beautiful gift that I'm able to give myself because of everything that is happening.

Q: What is one thing that you have learned about yourself that you did not know before the quarantine?

I learned to let things flow, release control, and trust that everything is happening for the best and there is a bigger picture even though we don't see it. I think, as humans, we believe that is going to put us together during the process we are being in and not trying to control anything that is not in our hands to control, so that's what I have been learning.

Q: Talk to us about your Breakout CBS role where you portrayed 'Gio Torres'. What did you enjoy most about the role?

It's a dream role because I was able to represent my birth country Cuba on prime time TV, so for me, it was a huge deal because, with my birth country, we don't get that much representation in Hollywood as Cubans. Like back in the days when Ricky Ricardo, played by Desi Arnaz in "I Love Lucy." It's been a dream because it was my debut in the U.S. market. It was a challenging role because I shaved my head and gained weight, even having a stronger Cuban accent to go with the character's movement of energy. It was a delightful and fun process to embody him and the story. It was a very heartfelt role, and the fans, people from Hollywood, the industry, the press have been very supportive, giving me a lot of love. I feel very blessed and grateful for what's happening in my career from playing this role.

Q: You always looked up to Desi Arnaz. Quote: Your dream role would be to reprise 'Ricky Ricardo' in a comedy series or film. What about the late star do you love the most?

Yes, for now, I am just putting that in the universe, and I genuinely believe that when you put something in the universe, it comes back to you and I would love to play the role of Ricky Ricardo, maybe not the same but something similar like a 2020 Ricky Ricardo comedy with the same flavor and energy, but something fresh.

Q: Can you think who would play Lucy?
No, but I am pretty sure there is an actress that will play her amazingly, but as for now, I don't know who.

We mentioned "Will & Grace" star, Debra Messing would be a great choice to play the iconic role of Lucille Ball, namely because they have similar features.

Q: You are active in volunteering at The Ronald McDonald House. In what ways do you continue to give back during the pandemic?

Well, now it's about social media, being honest, and donating your time and money. That is what I am doing. It is everything I can share and give advice on to having phone calls with people because we cannot do anything in-person. When you volunteer at the Ronald McDonald House, you feed and play with the kids, but right now, because of COVID, it's sharing what I have with what I can do, where I am.

Q: How important is it for you to maintain your wellness?

Yes, I always say it's a priority. To help others, we need to check ourselves first and make sure our mental health is on the right path. It's the only way because you are not going to give your pure, beautiful 100% energy otherwise. I think it's very important that we put ourselves first and our happiness. I firmly believe that you have to take care of yourself and be grateful for what you have.

Q: Any upcoming projects that you can share?

I have something kind of like cooking (laughs), but I can't share it right now. But what I can say is I have another project that made it to a few festivals. It's a very dark short film, and it's called "The Charming Man". It's different from anything I've done in the past, so hopefully, the short film does well. I think people are going to like it.

Carlo Arrechea is Making Cuban Actors Contenders

‘This is me’: Role on CBS series ‘S.W.A.T.’ a ‘dream come true’ for Carlo Arrechea

Growing up in Cuba, Carlo Arrechea was exposed to the happiness that entertainment could add to life.

At age 6, the third-generation actor played the son to his biological mother in a Cuban telenovela.

It was then he fell in love with acting.

His latest achievement is his role as Gio Torres on the CBS show “S.W.A.T.” The series airs at 8 p.m. Wednesdays.

Torres is a middleweight Cuban boxer, aka “The Caribbean King,” who is poised to win a huge match when his pregnant wife is kidnapped and held for ransom. He enlists the S.W.A.T. team and works with them to retrieve his wife just in time for the delivery of their first child.

“Being able to play Gio was a dream come true,” he says. “This role marks my U.S. debut. I was able to play a Cuban character as well, which has made the entire experience so special.”

Arrechea knew immediately that he wanted the role when he read the script.

"I was, like, 'This is me,' " he says of the character. "Although the main difference was I had never boxed. Once I got the audition, I hired a boxing coach, because I needed to be as authentic as I could. I rehearsed for about three weeks nonstop to pull it all off."

Arrechea also didn't want to portray Torres as a clichéd boxer.

"He's a fighter," he says. "Gio has all this love for his wife and upcoming baby. I had to have all that fire in the scene."

Arrechea has had a lot of success over the course of his career.

He snagged small roles in the telenovelas "Más saber el diablo," "El Cartel 2" and "Alguien te Mira."

He made the leap to the successful Nickelodeon Latin America series "Grachi," where he starred as Sebastian for three seasons (152 episodes).

It was during this time that he also starred in his first leading film role, in the romantic comedy “La Rebusqueda,” the highest-grossing Salvadoran film in the country’s history.

” ‘Grachi’ was special because it was a series that took my name out to the masses,” he says. “It was in Spanish, but it wasn’t only for a Spanish-speaking audience. Sebastian was a fun character to play, and within the three seasons, I got a chance to grow alongside the character.”

With the film industry slowed down due to the pandemic, Arrechea is looking for his next challenge.

He’s using his downtime to work with his acting coach. He’s also like to get to New Mexico for role.

“I always say the right roles always find the actors,” he says. “There’s so much filming in New Mexico that when things start up again, I’m looking at productions there. I enjoy co-creating with the writers and director on productions.”

1.- ¿Carlos, cómo empezaste tu carrera?

R: Comencé a los 6 años, con mi incursión en varios programas como protagonista en mi país natal, entre los que se encuentran "Haciendo Camino", "Hablamos de Salud" y "La Virgen de la Milagrosa", también participé al grupo de teatro "Los Chicos de Altura" donde mi mamá era nuestra directora y coach de actuación. Emigré a Miami en el 2002 con mi madre y abuelo.

Mi familia no veía con buenos ojos mi pasión por el arte. Para complacerlos empecé a estudiar psicología, pero mi sueño continuaba queriendo materializarse y me percaté de que mi futuro era la actuación. Entonces dejé los estudios de psicología y comencé a estudiar a tiempo completo actuación para perfilar de forma profesional mi talento.

2.- Además de actuar, también has realizado labores como modelo y conductor, ¿en qué te sientes más cómodo?

R: En qué más me apasiona es la actuación, debido a la conexión al igual que modelar, pero la actuación es mi fuerte.

3.- ¿Se podría actuar en cine?

R: Claro que sí, he visto que están en Hollywood.

4.- ¿Cómo se siente estar en una telenovela por ser tan exitosa como es "Grachi" y tener un personaje que también es exitoso?

R: Me siento muy afortunado y agradecido por esta gran oportunidad, mi personaje ha sido todo un éxito. Los chicos se divierten mucho con las situaciones.

5.- Siempre me enamoro de cada personaje que interpreto, pero definitivamente Sebastián se quedó en mi corazón.

R: Desear profundamente hacer la diferencia, ser el cambio que quiero ver en este mundo, poder ayudar a las personas a través de mi talento y llegarle a cada uno de ellos a su corazón.

6.- ¿Cuáles son tus proyectos profesionales?

R: Acabo de terminar con Univisión/Venvisión "El Tallman", donde personifiqué a Juanchito, y también la segunda temporada de "Grachi" en Nickelodeon. Ahora se viene un proyecto muy mágico y especial para mí, pero todavía no puedo dar muchos detalles, pero muy pronto sabrán.

¿Cómo empieza su carrera artística?

Empieza desde que tengo uso de razón, y yo diría que hasta antes de nacer. Desde muy pequeño he estado en este mundo mágico de la actuación. Mi mamá era actriz en Cuba. De hecho, el primer trabajo en televisión que hice fue con ella.

Sale de Cuba, llega Miami a enfrentarse con un mundo totalmente diferente al que vivía, ¿cómo enfrenta esta nueva vida y sus ganas de iniciarse en la actuación a lo grande?
